Gas-guzzler curb set

Solons ready energy plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration reportedly will not oppose legislation to ban the sale of "gas-guzzling" cars in 1980, even though the provision was not part of the President's energy package.

The Senate Energy Committee approved the proposal Monday, voting to require at least 16-mile-per-gallon performance from every 1980-model car sold in the United States and backing up the requirement with a $10,000 fine for each car that falls short.

The Senate panel acted as the House began debate on a 580-page energy bill and the President called for higher gasoline taxes and continued price controls on natural gas in a statement urging approval of his energy plan.

House leadership is hoping the bill, based largely on Carter's proposals, can be approved and sent to the Senate by Friday.

The Senate energy panel acted on a proposal by Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, to increase performance requirements for cars. Under the proposal, the 16-mpg requirement will be increased by one mile a gallon each year for five years beginning in 1980.

The requirement would be 21 miles per gallon for 1985-model cars. The $10,000 fine would apply each year.

A spokesman for Metzenbaum said Monday night the Carter administration had not indicated direct approval for the proposal. But he said, "We have had a definite statement from the administration that they would not oppose this."

The spokesman said he was optimistic that the proposal would win approval from the whole Senate, noting that Carter last week expressed renewed concern that Americans are not cutting back on their energy consumption.

The spokesman for Metzenbaum said congressional experts estimated the proposal could mean a savings of 26,000 barrels of oil a day.

Carter's energy proposals, unveiled in a speech last April 20, called for a special tax on so-called gas-guzzling cars, but no ban on their production.

The Senate panel also voted to double the fine imposed on manufacturers of automobiles that fall short of efficiency standards going into effect this fall.

Under a law passed in 1975, a company's entire line of cars must average 18 miles per gallon beginning with the 1978-model year.

If the average falls short, a company can be fined $100 a mile per car under the new proposal, instead of the existing $50 per mile per car.

Figures show new domestic cars now average 17.8 miles per gallon.

Carter's statement contained his first endorsement of a proposed nickel-a-gallon hike in the federal gasoline tax and said removal of federal price controls on natural gas would "undermine one of the basic tenets of my energy plan — fairness."

A nickel hike combined with other oil taxes in the program could add a dime to the current cost of each gallon. Each penny increase in the gasoline tax costs consumers an estimated $1 billion a year, experts say.

The current federal gasoline tax is four cents a gallon.

Coffee Break . . .

RESIDENTS INTERESTED in an area flood insurance study conducted by the Ohio Department of Natural Resources are invited to attend a public meeting at 2 p.m. Thursday in the Fayette County Common Pleas Court room.

A representative of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) will be on hand to answer any questions on the study and a flood insurance program.

Community public officials as well as representatives of various financial institutions, insurance agencies, and real estate firms are expected to be in attendance at the public meeting.

For Madison Twp. voters

Rural zoning plan approved for ballot

A rural zoning proposal will appear on Madison Township voters' ballots in the November general election.

The referendum election was certified following a public hearing held during Monday's meeting of the Fayette County Board of Commissioners.

According to Ray D. Warner, board chairman, no one attended the public hearing.

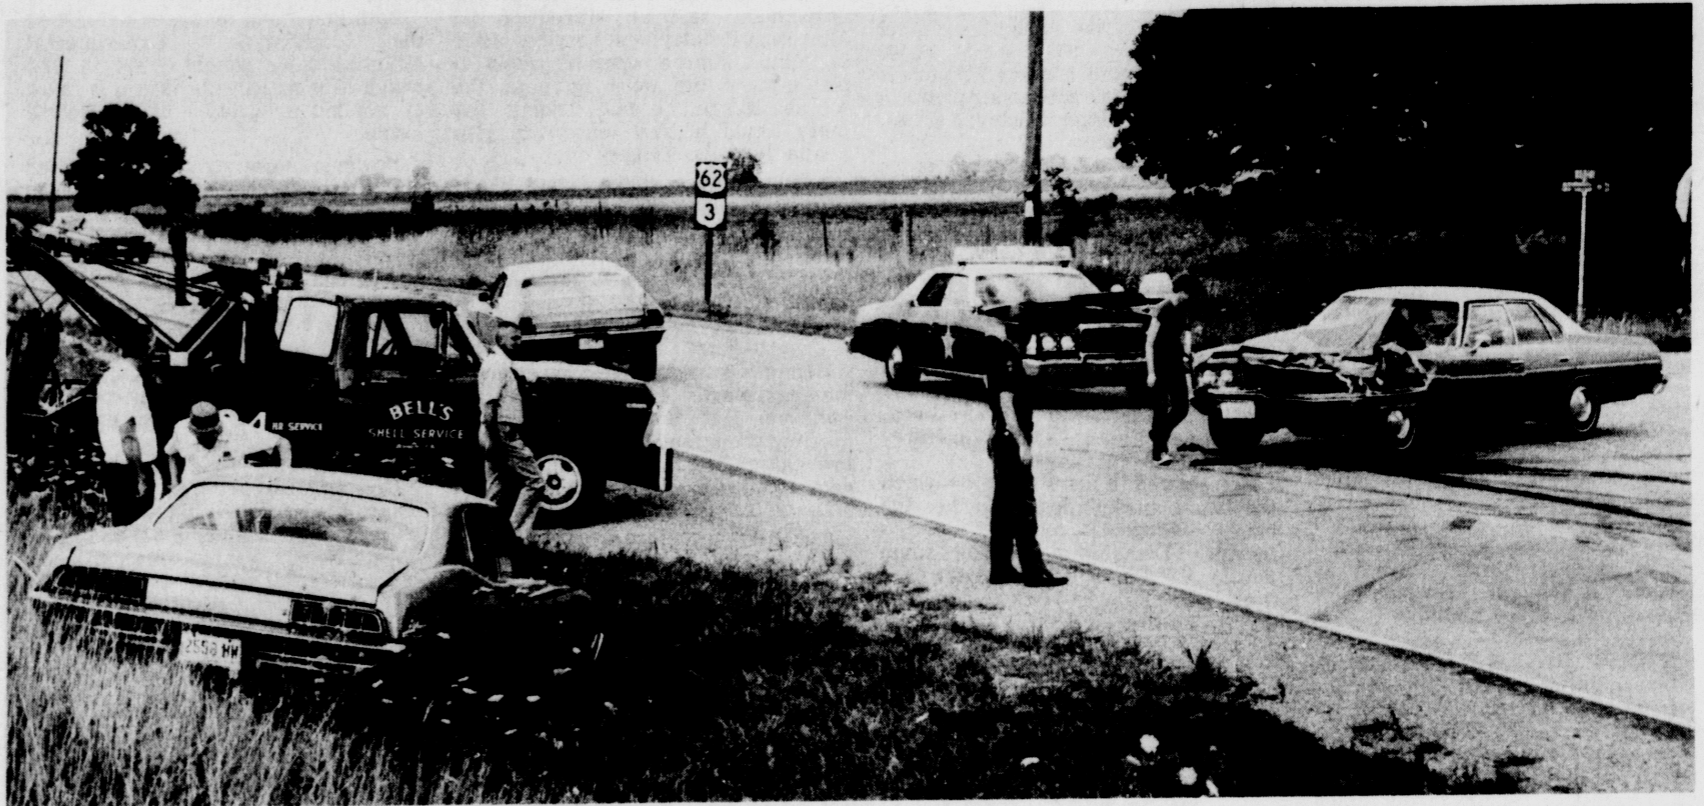

The proposal calls for the zoning of Madison Township land under the Fayette County rural zoning plan. Areas that are presently used for commercial purposes will be zoned residential and areas presently residential will be zoned commercial.

Approximately 95 per cent of Madison Township land is used for agricultural purposes and no land will be zoned for industrial purposes under the zoning plan.

The township currently has no zoning laws.

The zoning proposal has been approved by both the Fayette County Board of Zoning Appeals and the Fayette County Planning Commission.

Following the brief public hearing Monday, the proposal was turned over to the Fayette County Board of Elections to be placed on the ballot for the Nov. 8 general election.

FIVE PERSONS INJURED — Two persons were hospitalized and three others slightly injured after two cars (pictured here) collided on U.S. 62-NE at Bloomingburg-New Holland Road Monday afternoon. Michele Hart, 17, of New Holland, currently hospitalized and listed in "satisfactory" condition.

pulled her car from a stop sign on Bloomingburg-New Holland Road into the path of an oncoming vehicle. Her brother, Kevin, 9, is also listed in "satisfactory" condition by hospital officials.

Brother, sister hospitalized

Five persons injured in rural mishap

Two persons were hospitalized and three others suffered minor injuries in a two-car crash on U.S. 62-NE at the Bloomingburg-New Holland Road intersection Monday afternoon, according to Fayette County sheriff's deputies.

A sister and brother, Michele, 17, and Kevin Hart, 9, both of New Holland, were listed in "satisfactory" condition at Fayette County Memorial Hospital Tuesday morning. Michele was admitted for contusions of the abdomen and Kevin for facial lacerations and fractures after being rushed to the hospital by the Fayette County Life Squad.

Michele, the driver of one of the cars, pulled from the stop sign on Bloomingburg-New Holland Road at U.S. 62-NE around 4:05 p.m. directly into the path of a northeast bound vehicle, the sheriff's department report stated.

The three others injured included the driver of the other vehicle, Tunis Bruntz, 64, of Mount Sterling; Virginia M. Bruntz, 61, also of Mount Sterling; and Patricia G. Camstra, 17, of Jamestown. Bruntz suffered a cervical strain; his wife, Virginia, received contusions, abrasions and lacerations; and Miss Camstra suffered a puncture wound of the scalp. All three were treated and released.

Miss Hart was cited by sheriff's deputies for failure to yield.

Both drivers escaped injury in another two-car accident on U.S. 35 at Middleville-Jeffersonville Road around 7 p.m. sheriff's deputies reported.

Isaac J. Holbert, 22, Xenia, skidded

45 feet before his van slid off the right side of U.S. 35, the sheriff's department report stated. His vehicle came back on the road sideways and was struck by a car attempting to pass. The cause of Holbert's van skidding was undetermined.

According to the report, the car slid nearly 30 feet off the left roadside after impact. The car was driven by Darlene L. Holbert, 25, also of Xenia.

Washington C.H. police officers cited

Dennis D. Deacon, 22, of Chillicothe, after he clipped the right rear end of a car stopped on E. Court Street at Fayette Street Monday afternoon.

The police department report stated Deacon attempted to drive his pick-up truck around a car waiting to turn left onto Fayette Street about 12:46 p.m. Deacon's truck lacked the clearance room it needed and crashed into the car, driven by Richard L. Barger, 55, Staunton-Sugar Grove Road. Deacon was cited for changing lanes without safety.

In a minor accident around 12:14 p.m. Monday, police officers reported Alvin D. Dressler, 51, Martinsville, while trying to park a U-Haul truck on Potomac Circle, struck a parked car, belonging to Steve Mosley, 865 Potomac Circle. Dressler told investigating police officers he misjudged the truck's bumper and struck the car.

300 officers assigned to find killer

'Son Of Sam' victim dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Stacy Moskowitz — her brain irreparably damaged by a .44-caliber slug that shattered her skull — is dead, the sixth victim of the killer who calls himself "Son of Sam."

The 20-year-old Brooklyn woman was pronounced dead at 5:22 p.m. Monday, after surgeons at Kings County Hospital had labored 38½ hours to save her life.

Three hours before, Chief of Detectives John Keenan had announced that 300 officers had been assigned to track down the .44-caliber killer, who has killed six and wounded seven in eight attacks over the past 369 days.

Miss Moskowitz was shot twice in the head Sunday as she and her date, Robert Violante, 20, parked in a lovers' lane under a full moon along a Brooklyn waterfront.

The last thing Violante saw in the instant between the time the first two bullets hit his date and a third slug hit his head was the face of the gunman.

No immediate plans set

Cudahy site acquired by local businessman

The Cudahy Foods Co. plant, 532 Dayton Ave., vacant since the company closed operations here late last fall, has been purchased by a Washington C.H. businessman.

William Phillips, 165 Carolyn Road, has acquired the 7.4-acre tract of land and the numerous buildings on the Dayton Avenue site.

Phillips, president of Phillips Rent-All and Phillips Trucking, Inc., said he has no immediate plans for the facilities.

"I've got a lot of things in the back of my mind, but I can't say that I have any immediate plans for it," Phillips said.

The main building on the property contains 23,320 square feet of space. Another 2,164 square feet of space are contained in an office building on the site. A concrete building on the site has 8,438 square feet of space and there are 12 other miscellaneous buildings on the property.

The site also includes two concrete water reservoirs, each holding 500,000 gallons of water. Railroad service is also located on the property.

Phillips said he does not immediately plan to relocate his equipment rental service and trucking firm from 276 W. Oakland Ave., about two blocks west of the old Cudahy plant site.

"Gradually we'll make use of it from our own standpoint," he said. "We'll probably make use of some storage space right away," he added.

Phillips said he would be willing to lease "any part of it or maybe all of it." The former owner and operator of a taxicab service in Washington C.H., Phillips has been a local businessman since 1949. The taxi company owned by Phillips was situated in various locations in the Washington C.H. area through the years. He relocated the business from a site on U.S. 22-E to the W. Oakland Avenue property in 1967.

Phillips has been in the equipment rental business in Washington C.H. since 1970.

The Cudahy Foods Co., headquartered in Phoenix, Ariz., removed all of the manufacturing equipment from the Dayton Avenue plant shortly after it closed operations last November.

The plant manufactured American and Italian type cheeses and distributed butter and ice cream.

The sale of the Cudahy plant was handled by the Mark and Mustine Real Estate firm here.

Ex-spy pilot killed in helicopter crash

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Francis Gary Powers, the U2 pilot whose capture while on a spy flight over the Soviet Union pushed the Cold War into an even deeper chill, has been killed in the crash of his television news helicopter.

Powers, 47, and cameraman George Spears, 43, died Monday when their Bell Jet Ranger plunged into a vacant baseball field in the San Fernando Valley. Cause of the crash has not been determined.

The stocky, softspoken Powers created an international furor in 1960 when his high-altitude reconnaissance plane was brought down by a surface-to-air missile some 1,200 miles inside the Soviet Union.

The incident, which exposed the CIA practice of spy flights over Russia, caused the collapse of a Big Four summit conference in Paris and cancellation of President Eisenhower's planned trip to Moscow.

Powers spent 21 months in prison before being exchanged in 1962 for Col. Rudolph Abel, the master Soviet spy arrested in New York. He said on his return to the United States that he experienced "a wave of condemnation" for neither destroying the U2 nor killing himself with a poison needle given him under the flight.

Powers, a civilian under contract to the CIA, later said he had been unable to reach the buttons connected to the plane's self-destruct system and that he had been told using the needle was his own choice. He was cleared by a CIA board of inquiry, which found he had lived up to "his obligations as an American under the circumstances in which he found himself."

After the inquiry Powers worked as a U2 test pilot for Lockheed Aircraft Corp., the plane's maker. He was laid off in 1970 and said he believed that publication of "Operation Overflight," his account of the U2 incident, was the reason.

In 1971, Powers was hired as an aerial traffic reporter by Los Angeles radio station KGIL — a job he kept for five years before joining KNBC last November as pilot-reporter aboard the station's helicopter.

Powers and Spears were returning from filming a brush fire about 100 miles north of Los Angeles when the crash occurred.

Powers, who was divorced and remarried in 1963, is survived by his widow, Claudia; a son, Francis Gary Jr., 11, and Mrs. Powers' 20-year-old daughter by a previous marriage, Dee. Spears is survived by his widow, Annette, and their children, Terrence, 18, Sharon, 16, and Katherine, 14. Services are pending.

Judge continues gym work ban

CLEVELAND (AP) — A federal judge here compared Kent State University's Blanket Hill to Pearl Harbor and the Alamo on Monday when he continued a construction delay of a gym near where National Guardsmen shot four students to death seven years ago.

U.S. District Court Judge Thomas D. Lambros suggested in his ruling that national landmarks need not represent proud moments of U.S. history, witness the stature of Pearl Harbor and the Alamo. He also said that those places become historic spots in and of themselves, regardless of administrative decrees.

May 4th Coalition lawyers admitted that their appeal in federal court to halt construction of the controversial gym annex was a "last ditch effort" when Lambros issued his first temporary restraining order halting construction last Friday evening.

The judge then told the coalition — after a day-long hearing Monday — to give him a report Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. on its progress in finding federal support for having the site named a National Historic Landmark. The judge indicated he would not rule until Thursday on a request from university lawyers that he lift his temporary ban.

Terry Gilbert, a lawyer for the coalition, said a meeting would be held today with the Justice Department's community relations director and that members of Congress and other government officials would be contacted in an effort to expedite a finding by the Department of Interior about Blanket Hill's value as a historical site.

Gilbert said the big issue now boiled down to money — "whether the Department of Interior will make funds available to cover costs to the contractor of delaying the gym project."

Lambros questioned the university attorneys sharply. "I must have more than an emotional argument on behalf of a contractor that 'I am losing money,'" the judge told university lawyer Stephen T. Parisi.

When Parisi cited Ohio law to dispute coalition arguments that demonstrators had won some property rights in their two-month occupation of Blanket Hill before the university got a court order evicting them last month, Lambros told Parisi, "The question is not as simplistic as you attempt to show it in your presentation."

The judge said it appeared the Kent State board of trustees "failed to consider whether this site should be preserved. Now we have construction and nothing can be done about it."

Parisi argued that it was the events of what happened May 4, 1970 that were important, but the site was "just dirt that can come and go."

Meanwhile, a group of 11 Cleveland area families scheduled a 24-hour prayer vigil at the Blanket Hill site starting this morning to demonstrate support for the coalition.

County board preps for new school year

With the opening of area schools less than a month away, the Fayette County Board of Education considered a number of items pertaining to the coming school year at Monday night's regular session.

Superintendent Guy M. Foster announced that the school district is expanding its staff by three teachers this school year which begins Aug. 30.

The three positions are for two elementary physical education instructors and an art teacher for upper elementary and junior high school students.

"It is an attempt to improve our teacher-student ratio as well as an attempt to fill a need we felt we had," Foster told board members.

The board had stated in the past that elementary physical education and art instruction should be improved.

Foster also announced that there are presently only four teacher vacancies for the coming school year and he had applications for all but one of the positions, a visiting teacher-attendance officer.

Applications for the other three vacancies — a fifth grade teacher, junior high school social studies teacher, and junior high school EMR teacher — are presently being reviewed.

The board accepted two teacher resignations at Monday night's meeting. Mrs. Alberta Brennan, a teacher at Wilson Elementary School, and Gerald Burner, teacher at Bloomingburg Elementary School, have both resigned effective Aug. 26. Mrs. Brennan reportedly will be helping her husband with a new business and Burner has accepted a head teaching position in Morgan County.

The board also approved a partial list of supplemental teacher contracts for the coming school year. The list establishes the coaching staffs of the high school's major sports.

Assisting head football coach Fred Zechman this fall will be Richard Hill, Doug James, William Beatty, and newcomer Terry Enochs, who will also serve as the junior high school football coordinator.

Gary and Jeffrey Spears will be the freshmen coaches.

New varsity basketball coach Ron Hall's staff was also named on the list. Mike Henry and Don Trainer will remain as the reserve and freshman coaches respectively. Gary Kellough will serve as the junior high school basketball coordinator and as Hall's assistant varsity coach.

The high school will institute a new sport this fall — cross country. Harold Cook who has helped with past Miami Trace High School track teams, will be the coach.

Foster told the board that the supplemental contract list was not complete. The high school is still in need of cheerleader advisors and several other extra-curricular positions.

The board also established the tuition rate for the coming school year at Monday night's meeting. Tuition students will now have to pay $51.21 per month. Last year's tuition rate was $43.74 a month. The rate is reestablished each year through a formula that determines the expenditure in state funds of each student.

IN OTHER ACTION, the board: —Expressed sincere appreciation for the 12 years of service Edward Volker gave to the school system. The 54-year-old Volker, a high school art teacher, died July 2 in Columbus.

"He served a multitude of students in that 12 years of service," Foster said. "He was a dedicated person willing to cooperate with the entire school family."

—Continued to study the possibility of moving the district's administrative offices to modular buildings. The board felt it was too late in the year to make a final decision on the proposed move to gain increased office space and directed Foster to contact the owner of the present office building at 414 E. Court St. to renew the lease.

—Voiced no opposition to the Miami Trace High School Athletic Association's proposal to set football season ticket prices at $18 this year. That price is a $5.50 increase over last year's price, but Foster pointed out that there are six home games this year instead of five.

—Voted to accept student accident coverage insurance from the William Pool Insurance Agency again this year. One other insurance bid was received.

—Approved the hiring of three non-certified employees. Cecil Colaw, a custodian; Mary Colaw, a custodian-cook; and Deborah Creameans, an assistant secretary, were hired.

—Authorized Cindy Wood Damron to complete her senior year at Miami Trace High School as a tuition student. She now resides in the Washington C.H. School District; and —Authorized Timothy Anderson of Milledgeville to continue schooling as a tuition student in the Dayton Public School system.

Color slides of Greenland presented at Kiwanis meet

The Washington C.H. Kiwanis Club held its regular weekly dinner meeting Monday night in the Terrace Lounge. Color slides depicting many typical scenes from Greenland were presented by Elmer Reed of Washington C.H.

Before beginning his presentation, Reed conveyed appreciation from the Fayette County Fair Board for the outstanding job performed by the Kiwanis Club in handling ticket sales at the 1977 fair.

Reed and his wife journeyed to the southern tip of the Danish country recently. He said the country, originally called Iceland, was renamed Greenland by the Viking Eric the Red in an effort to attract more people.

Reed noted the primary income of the country is derived from cod fishing. He also noted some sheep are raised on the sparse grasslands in the southern regions of the world's largest island. He said the greatest percentage of Greenland is covered with a permanent icecap. He said the ice flows and icefalls progress toward the south end of the island where they break up into icebergs. He noted the glaciers moved from three to 33 feet per day.

His slides showed how icebergs were different colors after breaking off from the glaciers.

The meeting was conducted by club president Tom Mossbarger. He reminded members of the Farm Science Review at Columbus on August 9.

In other business, the club voted to contribute $50 to assist the two local youth softball teams in attending national tournaments.

Dayton firemen voting on pact

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Dayton firemen will continue voting this morning on whether to authorize their leaders to call a strike.

Approximately 400 members of Firefighters Union Local 136 began voting Monday in what one union official called a good turnout. Two days of balloting are needed to accommodate on-duty personnel.

The firemen seek higher wages and better fringe benefits. They oppose a city attempt to remove supervisory personnel from the union bargaining team.

See little coal dispute progress

By The Associated Press

Little progress is expected in reopening the 18 Ohio mines closed by roving pickets until rank and file miners stage their protest in Washington, according to John Guzek, president of United Mine Workers District 6.

Another union leader charged the six-week strike over health benefit cuts could have been prevented.

"There are a lot of meetings going on," Guzek said Monday. But, "It doesn't look good for today at all. It seems everybody is waiting to see what happens with (UMW District) 17."

District 17 is planning a mass march in Washington, D. C., this week to protest the cuts.

Pickets from the local area shut down all North American, Meigs, Consolidated Coal and Peabody mines in eastern and southeastern Ohio, idling some 5,000 to 6,000 workers at 18 mines, Guzek said.

Meanwhile, Gene Oiler, head of United Mine Workers Local 1886, said more immediate action by UMW President Arnold Miller could have prevented the six-week-old strike over health benefit cuts.

"Miller should have taken a stand earlier," Oiler said. "He must take one quickly to unite the union stand on the matter."

The strike also has idled 44,000 miners in West Virginia and 10,000 in Kentucky.

"The only way we can expect to get our full benefits back is to stick together" when contract talks begin this fall, Oiler said.

Oiler said the dispute will hurt the contract negotiations, but the miners will not accept any cuts.

"It won't hurt them (Bituminous Coal Operators Association) to reallocate the money to the health fund," Oiler said. "They're using this to discipline the union."

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — If you need to contact William Albert Spratley Jr. at home, save your old telephone book.

It may be coincidence, says Spratley — the man the state has appointed to fight consumers' battles with utility companies — but Ohio Bell managed to leave his home telephone number out of the new directories.

Spratley moved two days before the May 26 deadline for inclusion in the new directory and retained his old telephone number.

Live bait stolen in local burglary

An unknown number of persons broke into a bait shop on Clinton Avenue Monday night and escaped with several hundred night crawlers and minnows, according to Washington C.H. police officers.

Stanley East, 624 Draper St., an employee of the K and K Bait shop, 602 Clinton Ave., discovered the break-in about 7:30 a.m. Tuesday, according to the police department report. The burglar snatched between $20 and $30 worth of the live bait after entering the shop's store room through a window on the north-west side of the building, the report stated. The sales area of the store was left untouched, according to investigating police officers.

Police officers also reported that an unidentified man bilked a cashier at Bennett's Ice Cream parlor, 407 S. Elm St., out of nearly $20 Sunday evening.

The police department's report stated the man ordered a 55-cent ice cream cone about 6:30 p.m. and gave the cashier a $20 bill. He received $19.45 in change, then asked for the $20 bill back and requested two more $20 bills in exchange for four $10 bills. According to the report, the man then paid 55 cents for his ice cream cone and left the shop $19.45 richer.

Police officers stated the mistake went unnoticed until the store closed and the cash register receipts were checked. They also said a similar attempt was made at the Dairy Isle at 1140 Clinton Ave.

A New Holland man, Jerry Smith reported to Washington C.H. police officers that someone attempted to break into his car Sunday night. He stated he had parked his car, owned by Bonanza Auto Sales, 535 Dayton Ave., behind the Fayette County Life Squad office at 224 N. Main St. around 11:30 Sunday night. When he returned to his vehicle at 8 a.m. Monday, he found the rubber window moulding and interior trim had been torn, according to the police department report.

Apartment blaze doused after rekindling itself

A fire which caused $3,000 damage to an apartment building on Country Club Court early Monday morning rekindled itself shortly after 12 noon, according to Washington C.H. Fire Department officials.

The fire department report stated the burned out attic at 1026 Country Club Court began smoldering around 12:25 p.m. Monday, but was extinguished a few minutes later with a garden hose. No additional damage resulted.

Fayette County sheriff's deputies reported a 1962 model Chevrolet was totally destroyed by fire Monday night on I-71 near milepost No. 62.

The blaze began about 11:21 p.m. underneath the dashboard of the vehicle, which belongs to Tim Hays of Mount Sterling. Sabina firemen extinguished the fire, the sheriff's department report stated, but not before it engulfed and destroyed the car. The actual cause of the fire was undetermined.

Another vehicle fire reported by Washington C.H. firemen caused an estimated $250 damage to a 1970 model Oldsmobile a short time earlier Monday night.

Lloyd E. Fennig of 1995 Old Chillicothe Road, owner of the car, told Fayette County sheriff's deputies he arrived home around 11 p.m. and started to pull the vehicle into his garage when he noticed smoke filtering out from under the engine hood. Fire officials said the blaze probably started from a leak in the power steering pump. Oil from the steering pump leaked onto the hot exhaust system and ignited, they stated.

Supper club room overcrowded

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A drawing by a waitress shows that more than 1,300 people were jammed into the Cabaret Room of the Beverly Hills Supper Club May 28 when fire broke out in the club and killed 164 persons, The Courier-Journal reported today.

The newspaper said in a copyrighted article that it had obtained a copy of the drawing that waitress Janetta Johnson made for the Kentucky State Police. The map is being used to reconstruct events on the night of the fire, the Courier-Journal said.

It said authorities do not know how many patrons should have been allowed in the room, because no detailed plans for the club are in the state fire marshal's files.

Details of the map have been confirmed by a half-dozen other witnesses, the newspaper said.

It said other details on the map show that:

—Chairs were blocking fire exit ramps leading to the two main routes of escape.

—Tables were positioned so closely together that aisles within the room were impassable.

—Occupants were required to negotiate a maze of right and left turns on their way to fire exits.

—Exit signs were over doors within the Cabaret Room but not over doors leading directly to the outside.

—Chairs were placed in the aisles leading to the main entrance of the Cabaret Room.

Mrs. Johnson was quoted as saying she was able to reconstruct the room and tables because she had worked nearly all of the 21 waitress stations in the room over a two-year period.

Wallace to divorce Cornelia

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace says "there's nothing" to documents which purport to be an as yet unfiled divorce petition drawn up on his behalf.

The Associated Press obtained the document Monday following a report from a Montgomery television station, WSFA-TV, that a divorce petition had been drawn up for the governor and his wife, Cornelia.

Mrs. Wallace could not be reached for comment on the documents.

The governor, through his deputy press secretary, Elvin Stanton, said only that "there's nothing to that."

Stanton said he personally had "no knowledge of any divorce proceedings."

The document, which is unsigned and dated only July 1977, says "the husband avers there exists such a complete incompatibility of temperament that the parties can no longer live together."

"The husband further avers there has been an irretrievable breakdown of the marriage and further attempts at reconciliation are impractical or futile and not in the best interests of the parties."

Mrs. Wallace, the divorced niece of former Gov. James E. "Big Jim" Folsom, married Wallace on Jan. 4, 1971, about three years after Wallace's first wife, the late Gov. Lurleen Wallace, died of cancer.

Mrs. Wallace has two children by her first marriage and the governor has four.

Some clouds will spread into Ohio tonight and Wednesday as a cold front moves into the mid Great Lakes.

Southerly winds will increase the moisture content of Ohio's air and some scattered thundershowers will reappear Wednesday. Temperatures will be a bit warmer Wednesday with highs in the 80s.

Clear skies combined with light winds overnight to produce chilly temperatures across Ohio this morning.

Temperatures around sunrise lowered into the 40s and 50s. Toledo's 48 degrees approached its record for the date of 47 degrees set in 1927. Afternoon temperatures were to be in the 70s and 80s.

Fair Thursday and a chance of showers Friday or Saturday. Highs in the 80s and lows in the 60s.

Col. James Kilbourne, who surveyed and named Bucyrus in his youth, later told how he happened to choose the name of the town, honoring his boyhood hero, the Persian general Cyrus and adding "Bu" as a prefix for "beautiful." He was so enamored of the town, one historian says, that he wrote an eight-stanza poem in praise of it.

Retarded care bill signed by Rhodes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A bill that will allow for the care of retarded Ohioans in a residential setting, as an alternative to traditional institutionalized care has been signed into law by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Family homes for one to eight residents and group homes for up to 16 will be available to retarded citizens of any age, if licensed by the Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation. The law takes effect Oct. 31.

Rhodes also signed on Monday, effective immediately, a bill permitting financially-pressed school districts to place on the ballot as many as three emergency tax levy requests in a calendar year.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. Donna Pope, R-12 Parma, specifies that school districts that went to the ballot three times for emergency money could not ask voters to approve school levies for any other purpose, such as construction, during the same period. Emergency levies are only requested for operating funds, when money is needed to keep a school from temporarily closing.

Under the old law, districts were limited to one emergency levy ballot request during a calendar year.

While the school levy bill slipped quietly through the legislature, the retarded-care measure sparked considerable controversy.

"It is our full intention to help make Ohio's approach to her retarded citizens the most humane and progressive of any of the states," said author of the law, Sen. J. Timothy McCormack, D-31 Euclid. "I commend the governor for his role in the final approval of this most important proposal."

Opponents of the measure objected to provisions permitting the smaller "family" homes to be located in any area, notwithstanding local zoning ordinances. The homes would have to meet zoning requirements for some standards, however, such as space, lot size, and appearance.

The "group homes," with a maximum 16 residents, would be limited to areas zoned for multi-family dwellings.

The law will permit individuals to be licensed by the state division of mental retardation to operate the homes, envisioned as somewhat similar to a small nursing home facility.

Ninety-five profit-making homes for the mentally retarded are already operated in the state, according to supporters of the law.

Mental health affects work

NEW YORK (AP) — About one third of a person's life is spent working, so it pays to maintain on-the-job mental health, says Dorothy M. Saller, executive director of the American Association of Occupational Health Nurses.

The group's 9,000 members, all registered nurses, daily counsel employees and see first-hand the effect of personal problems on job performance. Self-examination on the following points might be the key to increasing your own happiness at work, Miss Saller notes.

—If something at the office or factory bothers you, do you ever express your feelings—in a nice way, of course—to your boss? It might be a good idea to do so.

—Have you had a physical checkup during the past year, especially on your blood pressure? It could be the root of what's bothering you.

—Do your on-the-job work habits create stress for you and your coworkers? Every company has behavior and procedural norms that require a certain amount of conformity.

—Do you have the right qualifications and skills for your job? You may be in the wrong field—or "over your head" in your present job.

—What about your personal habits? Are you smoking or drinking too much. Are you overeating?

—Are you a workaholic, with no time to relax? Is your job your only interest in life?

—Are your family, social and sexual relationships in good balance? If not, they can hamper work performance as much as heart or any other disease.

—Are you getting the proper amount of sleep? It's still true: you can't burn the candle at both ends.

—Are you letting personal financial problems nag you without doing anything about them?

—Have you ever discussed your business or personal problems with an expert such as your company doctor or occupational health nurse?

Air Force Captain sets sights on marathon

BROOKS AIR FORCE BASE, Tex. (AP) — Capt. Mary Ann Hodgson thinks jogging four or five miles around the base is one of the most pleasant ways to spend a lunch hour.

"When I run about 30 or 40 minutes I get loosened up and relaxed. It's a natural way to cool off and think about the day," says the Brooks AFB pharmacist. "When you run that distance, you get a release of adrenalin in your system — it's almost a natural high."

But during last year's New York Marathon, in which she participated, Captain Hodgson's only thought was to finish the 26.2 mile race. She was not out to break any records. Her goal in her first marathon was merely to complete the course.

Prior to this race the most she had run at one time was 16 miles. At the 23-mile point she "hit the wall" — she believed her legs couldn't carry her any farther.

"I felt that if I stopped, I'd never finish," she said. "At that point I couldn't even walk — I was in a shuffle. Then I saw the final mile sign and thought 'Well, there's only one more. I'll shuffle a little bit more.' When I knew there was only two-tenths of a mile left, I got that last spurt."

She finished in four hours and 30 minutes — an excellent time for a beginning marathon runner. The winner of the race ran it in approximately two hours and nine minutes, while the winning female entry crossed the line 30 minutes later.

Captain Hodgson, 31, began jogging in 1968, while still a student at South Dakota State University, but winer running was out of the question because of cold weather. After she graduated in 1969 she was too involved with becoming a registered pharmacist to run regularly.

"I wanted a chance to work on my master's degree and to travel, so I decided to join the Air Force," she said. In the spring of 1976 she began running regularly, building toward the October marathon.

Now she is running at least four or five miles at lunch and 7 to 14 miles a day on weekends, working toward cooling her "marathon fever" by entering the biggest, the Boston Marathon, this spring.

"I really like running on base," Captain Hodgson said. "It's a secure feeling. Everybody is very nice — it's a friendly atmosphere."

But that is not always the case for joggers, she adds, noting that drivers occasionally try to run them down or force them off the roadside.

"When I was younger, women in running or sports of any kind just hadn't been sanctioned," said the officer. "It wasn't 'their place' or men didn't think it was feminine. But I can name a lot of women in sports who are extremely feminine."

"I think you're going to see more and more women in sports because they're getting more recognition and discovering that exercise makes them feel better."

For the beginning jogger, male or female, Captain Hodgson suggests a good, comfortable pair of shoes.

"There are over a dozen good shoes for training, which cost about $25 or so. That's not much money, because if you don't have a good pair of shoes your feet are going to hurt. If your feet hurt your knees are going to hurt. You're going to be uncomfortable and ask why you are going through all this pain." Some people run in their hiking boots or regular street shoes. Captain Hodgson believes a person should run in whatever shoes are the most comfortable.

The beginning jogger should start out slowly, she cautions, running a quarter mile, walking a quarter mile and then trying to run another quarter mile. The goal for the first day could be one mile, using this alternating run-walk pattern.

"But don't push yourself," she emphasizes. "Once you feel a strain, stop. If you begin breathing hard, feel tired or lightheaded, stop automatically and walk."

"You don't have to run fast — find a speed where you're comfortable. If you can run and talk to somebody at the same time, while not losing your breath, that's where you're comfortable."

What's new? A souffle pie

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
Recipes for souffles are in some of our old-time American cookbooks; obviously over the years a good many cooks in the United States have made them successfully. Nevertheless, some present-day cooks have the notion that they are hard to prepare. Not at all.

Anyone who is willing to follow directions and has a well-regulated oven can make a souffle and also a souffle pie.

The usual main-course souffle consists of nothing more than an everyday white sauce to which is added a main ingredient and egg yolks; after this the egg whites are beaten and a big spoonful of them stirred into the sauce mixture. Finally the remaining beaten egg whites are folded in. It's as simple as that. Then if you have a well-regulated oven you're in business.

For a souffle pie, the souffle mixture is turned into a partially baked pie shell. One caution here: the pie shell will need a really high fluted rim of the pie plate because if the shell sinks back during the pre-baking it will not be high enough to hold the souffle filling. If you use a pie-crust mix for the shell, you'll need more of it than is usually suggested for a one-crust pie in order to make the high fluted rim.

When we tried the following recipe for a Devised Cheese Souffle Pie we served it with a tossed green salad for texture contrast; the combination makes a pleasant main course for a light supper.

DEVILED CHEESE SOUFFLE PIE

Unbaked 9-inch pastry shell with a high fluted rim
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 tablespoons flour
¾ cup milk
1½ cups grated (medium-fine) sharp or extra-sharp cheddar cheese, not packed down

3 large eggs, separated
4½-ounce can deviled ham

With a fork prick the bottom of the pastry shell; bake in a pre-heated 425-degree oven for 10 minutes; remove and set aside. In a medium saucepan over low heat melt the butter; stir in the flour; remove from heat; gradually stir in the milk, keeping smooth. Over moderately low heat, stirring constantly, cook until thickened and bubbly. Remove from heat and stir in the cheese. Whisk in the egg yolks, one at a time. Beat the egg whites until they hold stiff straight peaks; stir a large spoonful into the sauce mixture; fold in the remaining whites. Spread the deviled ham over the bottom of the pre-baked pastry shell; pour in the cheese mixture. Bake on the rack below center in a pre-heated 425-degree oven until puffed, brown and a cake tester inserted in the center comes out clean — 25 to 30 minutes. Serve at once. Makes 5 or 6 servings.

Female Engineer...

'must roll with the punches'

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Purdue University women graduates returned recently to their alma mater for Occupational Outlook 1977, a program during which the visitors were questioned by students on career opportunities, job expectations and other topics.

"It's tricky because you have to maintain your femininity but still be 'one of the guys,'" said Lorel Bloom Au, an environmental engineer with Eastman Kodak Co. in Rochester, N.Y. She has been given as many challenges as the men with whom she works, she said. The reactions of her male colleagues to working with the only woman engineer in her division are "I think, very favorable. You can't carry a chip on your shoulder or let your feelings get hurt. You're always going to be kidded — you have to roll with the punches."

If the Shoe Fits...

By ...
WES

Why are children's shoes so expensive?

The answer may amuse you, but the real reason that shoes are expensive is because we have to have TWO of them. When we look at a pair of $12 shoes, we should think of them individually as $6 each. That is how the manufacturer must look at them when he figures his cost of material and labor.

A single shoe at $6 is a far better value than a scarf or a necktie at the same price. The shoe must withstand grinding on cement and yet not blister little feet. It wades through puddles, kicks cans, shinies up trees, and comes up smiling with a little polish.

With the exception of glasses, perhaps nothing that we buy for a child can affect his future happiness as much as the footwear that protects the very foundation of bodily health.

Claim physicians abuse privileges

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An audit by the state alleges the Ohio State University hospital lost nearly $1.5 million in fiscal year 1976 because staff doctors used the facility for private practice.

Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson called the deficit "...a $1.4 million subsidy to the doctors, giving them services and facilities at no cost. It shows an imperative need for a comprehensive doctors' practice plan in the hospitals at the earliest possible juncture."

The auditor said the hospital recognized it had no policy for billing doctors and that the doctors are willing to pay if only the policy is developed. Hospital administrators could not be reached for comment.

Municipal Court

A local man, arrested by Fayette County sheriff's deputies Saturday on four separate charges in connection with an incident at the Fayette County Fairgrounds, was found guilty of two of the charges Monday by Washington C.H. Municipal Court Judge John P. Case.

The judge found 25-year-old Jack Lee Anders of 632 E. Paint St. guilty of resisting arrest and disorderly conduct. He was sentenced to 20 days in the county jail and fined $100 plus court costs for resisting arrest and $50 and costs for the charge of disorderly conduct.

Anders was arrested following a complaint filed by a shooting gallery operator who told sheriff's deputies Anders allegedly assaulted him and threatened a woman operating a booth next to the gallery with one of the gallery rifles. The resisting arrest charge was made when Anders broke away from the deputies while being taken to the sheriff's department's fairgrounds command post and ran through the crowd on the midway.

The 25-year-old man was also charged with aggravated menacing and assault, but his hearing on those charges was continued until Friday, Aug. 5.

Another Washington C.H. youth who was arrested on four separate charges by Washington C.H. police officers Saturday, was found guilty of two of those charges Monday.

Nineteen-year-old Randy L. Webb, of Mount Sterling, was found guilty of criminal damaging, fined $50 and costs and sentenced to 10 days in the city jail. However, Judge Case ordered the jail term suspended providing Webb make restitution to Frisch's restaurant within 60 days.

The youth was arrested Saturday night after he was seen breaking the entrance sign at Frisch's Restaurant with his fist. When approached by police officers Webb allegedly started a scuffle with one of them and was eventually charged also with disorderly conduct, resisting arrest and assault on a police officer.

The Municipal Court judge found him guilty of disorderly conduct for which he fined the youth another $50 and costs. His hearing on the other two charges was continued to Friday, Aug. 5.

Arrested Saturday by Washington C.H. police officers, Max Stevens, 46, of 711 Western Ave., was also found guilty of criminal damaging Monday. He was sentenced to 60 days in the city jail and fined court costs.

Stevens had been arrested on the charge after he told police officers he put his hand through a window at Weegie's Town Tavern Saturday night.

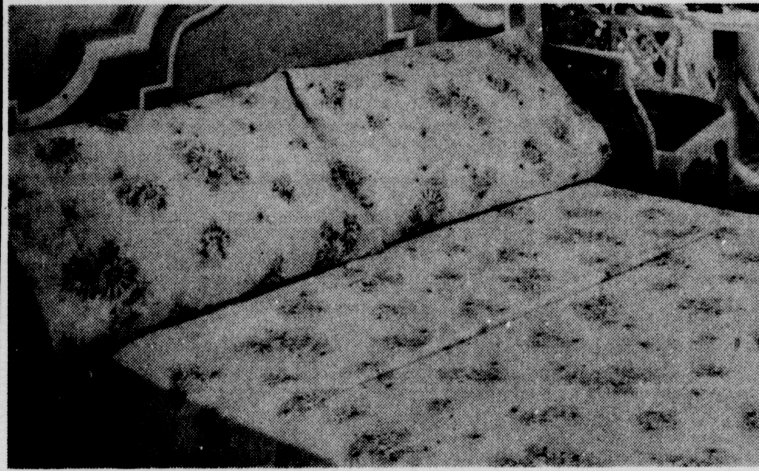

In one other hearing Monday, Judge Case found Lee Morse of 1420 Pearl St. guilty of assault and fined the man $35 plus court costs. He had been arrested June 27 on a private warrant by Fayette County sheriff's deputies in connection with a June 18 incident.

Foster, Driessen lead Reds to win

Strategy blows in Cub faces

By KEN RAPPOPORT

AP Sports Writer
Paul Reuschel looked toward home plate and saw George Foster in the batter's box, waving a bat that looked like a king-size war club.
"I just didn't want to give him anything to hit," said the Chicago Cub relief pitcher.

He didn't. He walked the streaking Cincinnati hitter in the tense eighth-inning situation and decided to take his chances with Dan Driessen.
It was the right move for Reuschel, but the results turned out all wrong for the Cubs. Driessen smashed a tie-breaking triple that started the Reds to a 7-6 victory Monday night.

It was no consolation for Reuschel that the Reds thought he did the proper thing in avoiding Foster. The Cincinnati left fielder had driven in four earlier runs with a pair of two-run homers, boosting his major league-leading totals to 34 homers and 102 RBI.
"If I was a pitcher, I wouldn't be pitching to Foster," said Driessen. "I'd rather pitch to me."

In other National League action, the New York Mets tripped the Los Angeles Dodgers 8-7 in 12 innings; the Houston Astros edged the Pittsburgh Pirates 4-3 in 11 innings; the St. Louis Cardinals turned back the Atlanta Braves 6-5 and the San Francisco Giants routed the Montreal Expos 9-2.

Pedro Borbon hurled 2 2-3 innings in relief of Tom Seaver to earn the victory for Cincinnati. Foster's home runs both came after two-out walks to Joe Morgan, in the first and third innings.

After Driessen's eighth-inning triple scored Foster to snap a 5-5 tie, Driessen scored on Johnny Bench's single. That turned out to be the eventual winning run after Bill Buckner hit a homer in the Chicago ninth.

Mets 8, Dodgers 7
Joel Youngblood's run-scoring pinch single in the bottom of the 12th lifted New York over Los Angeles. The loss ended a five-game winning streak for the runaway leaders in the National League West.

Ron Cey drove in five runs for Los Angeles with a single, triple and homer and Steve Garvey also had a home run.

Astros 4, Pirates 3
Jose Cruz slammed Rich Gossage's first pitch into the right field seats in the bottom of the 11th to lift Houston over Pittsburgh. Mark Lemongello went the distance for Houston as the Astros beat the Pirates for only the fifth time in their last 21 games.

Gossage pitched three innings of hitless relief before yielding Cruz' 12th homer.

Cardinals 6, Braves 5
Jerry Mumphrey broke a tie in the sixth inning with his second run-scoring double of the game, boosting St. Louis over Atlanta.

SECOND PLACE SQUAD — The 1977 Washington C.H. Little League All-Stars finished a strong second in the District 8 Invitational Tournament in Dayton, posting a 5-3 record. The All-Stars lost the first two games and then rattled off five straight wins before losing the final game.

Bostock rocks, Twins roll

Lyman Bostock isn't looking for a walk when he gets up to the plate.

"I've always thought you swing at anything in the strike zone," says the Minnesota center fielder. "I don't give the pitchers much of a chance to walk me."

Kansas City pitchers might have been better off to issue Bostock a free pass Monday night. He went 3-for-4, banging out a home run, double and single and raising his batting average to .343 while knocking in four runs as the Twins clubbed the Kansas City Royals 9-5.

"Lyman is one of the finest hitters in the game," said Twins Manager Gene Mauch. "There is absolutely no restriction in his swing. He's a very intense player."

The victory was Minnesota's 12th in its last 16 games as the Twins moved ahead of Kansas City into second place in the American League West, 4½ games behind the Chicago White Sox.

In other AL games Monday, Toronto nipped Milwaukee 3-2, Texas defeated Chicago 11-6 and California downed

New York 4-1.
Bostock's hitting was backed by 3 2-3 scoreless innings of pitching by reliever Tom Johnson. Johnson picked up his 12th save of the season while preserving Geoff Zahn's 10th victory against eight losses.

Orioles 5, A's 1
Kiko Garcia and pinch-hitter Andre Mora blasted home runs to lead Baltimore over Oakland. The victory gave the Orioles a one-half game lead over Boston in the American League East race.

Rudy May, 12-9, tossed a nine-hitter for the Orioles, posting his 100th career victory, but needed last-out help from reliever Dick Drago.

Rangers 11, White Sox 6
Jim Sundberg drove in three runs with a home run, a single and a squeeze bunt, and scored four times as Texas tied a major league record with eight sacrifices in its victory over Chicago.

12-year-olds win again

The Washington C.H. baseball team, made up of 12-year old boys, defeated New Holland Monday night, 5-0, with Dan Craig pitching a no-hitter.

The boys are participating in the Hillsboro Baseball Tournament and updated their record to 3-1.

It was the second no-hitter in as many days as the local boys defeated Chillicothe 14-0, Sunday.

Dan Craig pitched five innings and Rob Smith one as the duo combined on the no-hit performance.

Also Sunday evening, the squad defeated the Scioto Valley All-Stars 6-3. The team will play New Vienna tonight at 6 p.m. on the Hillsboro diamond.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It's one of life's little ironies that Linda Lavin grew up intending to be a singer, now plays a widow lady who dreams of being a singer, but doesn't get to sing on-camera in her series.
Miss Lavin, star of CBS' "Alice," only sings off-camera. That's her fine, husky, jazz-flavored vocalizing you hear doing the show's theme song.
The rest of the time she just goes about her business as Alice Hyatt, mother of a 12-year-old boy, waitressing in a rundown Phoenix cafe full of assorted joke-cracking characters.
"The original concept was that Alice would do some singing, play the local Ramada Inn, but concepts change," said Miss L., a veteran of Broadway musicals as well as stage and TV dramas.
What happened, she said, is that CBS "decided it probably wouldn't be a good idea to have Alice always talking about wanting to go to Hollywood to be a singer, that she shouldn't be complaining.

"It felt she should be resigned to finding stimulation from her life and job as a waitress in a diner because she has a boy to raise."
"They thought it (the singing dream) was too frustrating to work on, also that people don't want to sit and listen to somebody sing in a sitcom for five minutes."
"I think the idea is, when her son gets through high school, then she could pursue her dream — if we're on the air long enough."

Miss Lavin, whose series has been renewed by CBS for a second season, wasn't griping and indeed insisted she couldn't be happier with the show than she is now.
The diminutive, brown-haired actress, who sounds faintly Brooklyn but was raised in Portland, Maine, was asked if she's been doing any singing to keep her hand in.
Yep, beamed the lady who made her Broadway debut in 1965 in "It's a Bird...It's a Plane...It's Superman." She said she's had several shots on Merv Griffin's talk-variety show — "He's been wonderful to me" — as well as musical appearances on the Mike Douglas and Dinah Shore programs.
And, she said, she did her first prime-time network program as an on-camera singer last spring on CBS' "Critics' Choice" awards show.
Miss Lavin, who plays piano, said she's thinking of working up a club act now, but is in no rush to do a record album simply to capitalize — as have some TV stars — on the fact she's in a series.
She also emphasized she's not frustrated that while she can sing, her "Alice" doesn't.

Carter women work up angry memo

WASHINGTON (AP) — Women who work for President Carter but don't like his opposition to federally financed abortions are preparing a memorandum that will underline their discomfort with his position.

The memo, which is expected eventually to be seen by Carter, says their "reaction is deeply felt on a deeply felt issue — federal funding for abortions."

Carter opposes using federal Medicaid funds to pay for elective abortions.

The preparation of the memo follows a White House meeting on the abortion issue two weeks ago, which was attended by about 40 people, including some of Carter's top female appointees and their aides.

A source familiar with a draft of the memorandum said it reads in part: "We believe we are here to assist you. We are here to do a job. We joined the administration proudly. In an administration where we feel comfortable in speaking out, we want you to know that your leadership could make a difference in (this matter)."

People familiar with the situation say they expect at least two Cabinet members to sign the memo. They would not specify which ones, but there have been reports that Secretary of Housing and Urban Development Patricia Roberts Harris told Carter at a Cabinet meeting she does not agree with his abortion position.

Commerce Secretary Juanita Kreps also is reported to oppose the President's position.

Sources say one reason why Carter has not yet received the memo is that the women, whose professional backgrounds vary, have been unable to agree on exactly what it should say.

Pioneer-Standard has good quarter

CLEVELAND (AP) — Pioneer-Standard Electronics Co. Monday reported records for sales, net income and earnings during the quarter ending June 30, 1977.

Sales increased 14 per cent, from $10,837,621 in 1976 to $12,327,586 this year, while net income rose 20 per cent, from $376,624, or 33 cents per share, to $453,230, or 39 cents per share.

Natural gas discovery in the 1880's initiated the establishment of glass factories in Toledo, Edward D. Libbey's plant being the first. Toledo today is known as the glass capital of the world.—AP

Farmers boost use of fertilizer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Curtailments of major raw materials for fertilizers last winter only slightly hurt the over-all supply for this growing season and, once again, U.S. farmers are increasing their use of the chemical nutrients, the Agriculture Department says.

The latest report on consumption of commercial fertilizers shows 5 per cent more being used in May than a year earlier, with the July 1976-May 1977 total 7 per cent ahead of the same period a year ago.

In an unpublished paper, four USDA economic analysts recently said that the total chemical fertilizer supply for this year is 5 per cent greater than last year's.

Natural gas is a principal source not only for fuel in the fertilizer plants but also for the ingredients of anhydrous ammonia.

Even though supplies are tight, it is still cheaper than most alternatives for making those fertilizers, the paper said.

But the analysts said that the cutbacks early this year pulled only 750,000 tons of ammonia out of the estimated total supply this year of 11 million tons.

Toledo once was called the "corn city" because of the huge shipments of grain which passed through the city via the Wabash-Erie and the Miami Erie Canals in the middle 1850's.—AP

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Thoughts of a homeowner as a real estate broker shows prospective purchasers around the house:

"They look like a nice couple. Well dressed, too. Shouldn't be any question about price with them. There they go into the kitchen. They probably won't notice the faucet leaking. It's just a tiny drip. Wonder what he's whispering to her? Could he have said something to her about that wall plaque that says there's no place like home? The nerve of her... she's looking into the garbage container. What's that got to do with buying a house? Now she's opened the dishwasher. I suppose I should tell her it hasn't been working for months. I'd better not. Might spoil the deal. If they decide to buy, we'll get it fixed before they move in. That is, if we get our price.

"The living room seems to satisfy them. They're both nodding their heads as though they're impressed. They should be after what we paid for that furniture. Wonder why they're spending so much time looking at that painting? It's just a landscape. He's asking the agent about the taxes. Guess they don't own a house now or they wouldn't be so surprised at the answer. Good thing I remembered to put a throw rug on that worn part of the carpet. There they go whispering again. Hope they didn't notice that the ceiling needs a painting. I don't think so. Neither one seemed to look up.

"Not much reaction to the dining room. I told Joe it really isn't that small. They didn't even glance at that beautiful fruit bowl my mother brought back from Mexico. Why isn't the agent showing them the nice view from the window? I'd better not say anything. He warned me not to butt in. Not in those words. Said it was better to have only one person do the explaining. Maybe he's right, but I wish he'd explain a little more.

"They should like the bedrooms. Everything has been polished. Just finished making the beds when the bell rang. Didn't think anyone would come this early in the day. Guess he took the day off... or maybe he's on vacation... can't be he's out of work or they wouldn't be buying a house. That is, if they really are buying a house. Could be they're just looking. Some people are funny that way. Don't care how they take up your time. They're looking in the closets. Some job cleaning them out last weekend. She's giving a second look at that dress I bought for Alice's party. Bet she'd be surprised to find out I only paid $17 for it. Not as surprised as Joe, though. He sounded as though he didn't believe me.

"What's that? They think a lot of work has to be done on the outside of the house? What work? We had it painted a couple of years ago. Or was it three or four years?

"Now they want to know how much we'll come down on the price. He's telling them to make an offer and he'll discuss it with us. WHAT? Why, that's $5,000 less than we want. Ridiculous. We spent more than that on remodeling the kitchen and finishing the attic. Guess they're not as nice as I thought they were. Well, we're sure not going to come down that much. Better speak to Joe, though. He says we'd better do something soon or we'll have a problem with that other house we've signed up to buy. I'd better keep still or he'll remind me he wanted to sell this house first. Well, they're going. I hope it wasn't a waste of time."

Opening lead - nine of hearts.

This deal occurred in the match between Austria and Italy during the world championship played in Monte Carlo in 1976. It was played at 44 tables, and 23 times South got to six hearts! This dreadful contract - the odds against making the slam were about 4-to-1 - was successfully negotiated at 22 of the 23 tables at which it was played.

The opening lead was usually a diamond, a club or a spade.

Against any of these leads declarer's only real chance was to take a successful first-round trump finesse with the queen and next play the ace, hoping to find East with precisely the doubleton king. Twenty-two lucky declarers found this to be the actual case and, as a result, scored 1,430 points.

The Austrian declarer was the only one who failed to make the slam. The Italian star, Benito Garozzo, chose the diabolical opening lead of the nine of trumps. Declarer, in an effort to guard against the possibility that East might have the K-J-6 of trumps, covered the nine with the ten and won East's king with the ace.

Declarer played a diamond to the queen, returned a trump and, when East produced the six, found himself facing a harrowing guess. He had to decide whether Garozzo's opening lead of the trump nine was from the J-9, which would be an unusual lead against a slam, or whether Garozzo's lead of the trump nine was a singleton, which would also be an unusual lead against a slam.

The Austrian declarer finessed the eight and went down one. It turned out that the slam was easy to make without a trump lead, but with it South had a chance to go wrong, and, in the actual case, he did go wrong.

Occupations Play Role in Disease

I find in the practice of medicine that both my patients and I fall into a serious error. It is too rare that we talk about their occupations and inquire into the possibility that their work may be a factor in the production of the symptoms they complain about.

A wise physician, Dr. Leon J. Warshaw, recently quoted Sherlock Holmes who said, "On meeting a fellow mortal, learn at a glance to distinguish the history of the man and the trade or profession to which he belongs... By a man's fingernails, by his coat sleeves, by his boots, by his trouser-knees, by the callouses of his forefinger and thumb, by his expression, by each of these things a man's calling is plainly revealed."

after a long period of time, may cause signs and symptoms that can be confusing.

Occasionally, it may be necessary to advise against returning to a particular job because the total working environment may be hazardous to some people.

Fortunately, most large industries today have medical directors who carefully screen workers from obvious hazards. They set up protective devices which reduce injury and illness.

Dr. Warshaw, who is a member of the American Occupational Medicine Association, said, "Learning about your patient's work, the environment in which he does it, and his attitude towards it will help doctors treat the patient as a total human being."

Physicians can get many subtle, but important clues that may help solve some of their more complicated cases by learning more about a man's occupation.

It's important for the doctor to obtain from the patient details about the kind of work he does, and the environment in which it is done.

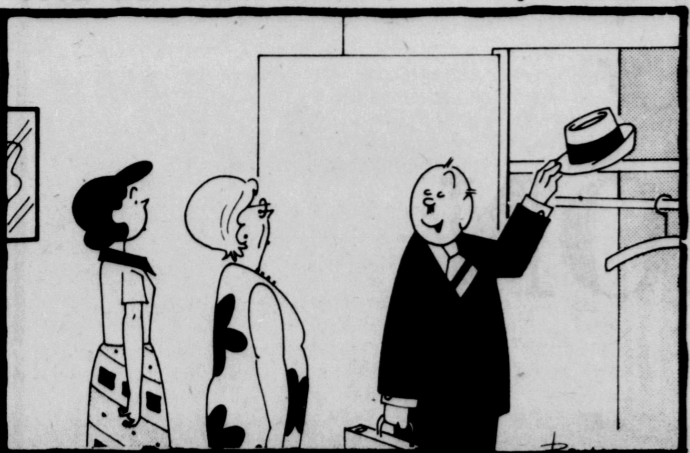

A great many people work around chemicals, fumes, and other noxious agents which,

Should people who have hiatus hernia avoid any particular foods? — Miss S.S., N.Y.

Dear Miss S.:
Hiatus hernia, or diaphragmatic hernia, is a weakening in the walls of the esophagus, the tube through which food passes from the mouth to the stomach.

Not all such hernias are alike, and, therefore, diets will vary to some extent.

In Focus by Charlie Pensyl

Seems like everything you read and everything you hear these days about photography is oriented toward equipment. You are led to think that you have to have some special camera with some super something-or-other lens to get a fine picture. That's a lot of bunk. The picture is conceived in the mind of the photographer and he uses his skill with the camera to get the latent image on the film. From this point it's the skill of the processor that will make the result a prize-winner or a disaster. Good equipment is helpful; skill and knowledge is essential. If you do your own processing you know this. If you depend on a lab to do your finishing you better be sure that it's the best lab you can find.

When you find a bunch of guys sitting around talking about cameras, lenses, lens testing, and all that kind of trivia, you can just about figure that they are not photographers; they're magazine readers who want to sound profound. Real photographers talk of techniques and print quality. That's the name of the game. Think about it.
